▶ TRAIN THE TRAINER

As with management, being good at doing the job does not necessarily mean we will be good at training someone else to do it.

This course will introduce many of the exciting new training techniques available to both the experienced and inexperienced trainer. This course will be tailored to the specific needs of those attending and will take particular account of their previous experience in this area.

WHO IS IT FOR?

- It will provide a solid introduction for the first-time trainer
- It will provide an opportunity for experienced trainers to revitalize their training methods and their training courses
- It is an ideal workshop for anyone charged with developing or delivering any form of training in your organisation

WHAT WILL IT COVER?

The course will use Neuro-Linguistic-Programming (NLP) techniques to demonstrate how traditional approaches to training can be enhanced.

It will cover subjects such as:

- Agreeing learning objectives that meet the needs of the individual, the organisation and the recipients.
- Understanding why training courses fail
- Overcoming the pitfalls to ensure a training course that really works
- Controlling the environment
- Understanding learning styles
- Choosing the medium of presentation appropriate to your audience
- Facilitating group dynamics
- Games, simulations and roleplays
